

University of Washington—Real Estate Collaboration Site

completed.

The University of Washington engaged Buildingi to design and implement a central SharePoint collaboration portal. The portal was designed to facilitate the transaction of data and support collaboration among the many teams using the many processes of the university's Real Estate organization.

Buildingi began by implementing a site for small-scale collaboration among the Real Estate team. Given the success of the initial project, and several related projects throughout the university, the Real Estate organization further engaged Buildingi to build a full-scale collaboration site. Since then, engagements with the university's Physics and Astronomy teams have also been
